This photo -- taken at President Bush's recent appearance in Portland, and published on the front page of the Portland Tribune-- shows a Bush supporter attempting to silence a protester. It speaks volumes, I think, about the underlying dynamic of this year's election. Something similar, I should mention, occurred during Michelle Malkin's recent Seattle-area appearance:

Because noncognitive qualities like grit, curiosity, self-control, optimism, and conscientiousness are often described, with some accuracy, as skills, educators eager to develop these qualities in their students quite naturally tend to treat them like the skills that we already know how to teach: reading, calculating, analyzing, and so on. And as the value of noncognitive skills has become ...
