Large Herbivore Ecology, Ecosystem Dynamics and Conservation The major drivers forming the shape and function of terrestrial ecosystems are large herbivores. These animals modify primary production, nutrient cycles, soil properties and fire regimes, which all have an impact on the ecology of other organisms.

Ebook Description. Large terrestrial mammalian herbivores play critical roles in ecosystems by acting as regulators of energy and nutrient cycles, modulators of plant community composition and grassland-woodland transitions, agents of seed dispersal, and as prey for large carnivores.

The Ecology of Large Herbivores in South and Southeast

Though large herbivores represent a prominent component of mammalian assemblages throughout South and Southeast Asia, little is known about their roles in ecosystems in the region. This volume presents, for the first time, a collection of studies on the ecology of the rich and diverse large herbivore assemblages of South and Southeast Asia.

The Ecology of Large Herbivores in South and Southeast

Large herbivores are the major drivers for forming the shape and function of terrestrial ecosystems. This 2006 book addresses the scientifically based action plans to manage both the large herbivore populations and their habitats worldwide.

In addition, our findings demonstrate that decomposer abundance can be influenced by an ecosystem's trophic structure, with significant reductions in microbial biomass occurring as a result of herbivores diverting plant carbon away from soils.
